How Things Lay Out For 'You' In Terms of Jurisdiction

The only jurisdiction where a living man exists is the soil.

Justice Anna Maria Reizinger

Every living man is a state unto himself and within himself has:

• his "land"

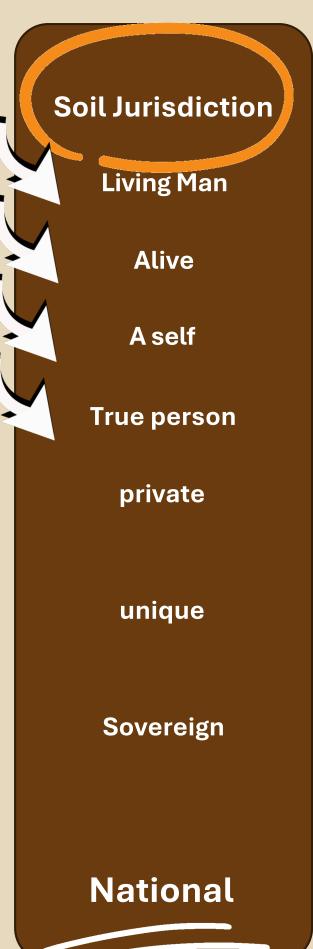

(bones and flesh)

• his "sea"

(his blood)

and

• his "air" (his breath).

Each country has its own Admiralty Law.

The British Admiralty Law is very limited and
usually concerns
nothing but contracts,
salvage, probate,
and seaman's
estates.
